London Films

By W. D. Howells

Mr. Howells carried a keen and appreciative mental kodak with him during his recent sojourn in London, and the record of the impressions made upon him by the great city shows this admirable writer in his happiest vein. His delightful talk about London is most engaging. He draws illuminating and humorous contrast between New York and the English metropolis, chatting delightfully of London weather, the street sights and noises, his rambles about town, the parks and churches, and his adventures with English lodgings and hansoms. The commentary is written in masterly style and enlivened with much humor and agreeable bits of gossip.

Wee Winkles and Wideawake By Gabrielle E. Jackson

A Story of the Theft of an Empire

A worthy companion to "The Captain of the Janizaries" and "Deborah."

The great plot of Sir Raoul and the Romance of the Lady Renée are based upon the historical facts concerning the miscarriage of that crusade of the XIIIth century which was diverted from conquering the Moslems to the capture of the Christian city of Constantinople. My imprint on a book usually means it has adventure, romance, lots of action and human interest.

The Lost Viol is hard to classify. Romance—yes; adventure—yes; “problems”—almost; character study—rarely acute and of extraordinary character.

It is bound to provoke discussion and many readings.

Chronicles of the Little Tot

If you buy but one book this year let it be the CHRONICLES OF THE LITTLE TOT by Edmund Vance Cooke. No other book of poems will appeal to you as this one. It is full of the heart-throbs of child-life. You will laugh over it, and perhaps cry over it, for you cannot help loving the lovable "Little Tot."

We could print a page of lavish praise. Here's one unsolicited letter from a man you know full well—Leigh Mitchell Hodges :

"Of all the present-day verse with which I'm familiar—and I have read a ream or two—I cannot recall five poems that approach these (the last five in the book), and I am quite content to wrap 'The Little Boy Who Left Us' in the lavender of love, and lay it away with 'The Dandelion,' 'The Chambered Nautilus' and 'Little Boy Blue'—my prime treasures—Americana. It towers above adjectives: it passes words in its sure journey to the heart."

Without advertising, it has reached its fourth edition because it is one of the few really good books that people insist their friends must enjoy with them.

The BLACK SPANIEL

By ROBERT HICHENS

Author of "The Garden of Allah," "Felix," etc.

"The Black Spaniel," the long story that with several shorter ones makes up this volume, is as unusual and original as the novels the author has given us previously. Aside from its compelling appeal against vivisection, the story has as its theme a most curious and realistic psychological motive growing out of the cruel treatment of a little dog, that baffles the reader and, even against his will, holds his attention to the last page.

The remaining stories are chiefly of the Arabian desert—the fascinating background of Mr. Hichens's masterpiece "The Garden of Allah."

Here is what "might be called 'A Tale in Porcelain' of a taming of a shrew.

"Shrew, no doubt, is too harsh a name for so dainty a piece as my young Lady Anne. Taming, again, is perhaps an over-weighty word to paint the conflict of hearts and wit—full of anxiety at times, but always of courtesy."

With four full-page illustrations in color by ETHEL FRANKLIN BETTS, and decorative title-page, initial letters, chapter titles, and end papers by FREDERICK G. HALL.

HOW DO YOU LIKE OUR WAY OF DOING BUSINESS THIS FALL?

Take for instance Mr. Crockett's new novel "The Cherry Ribband." We believed this book was the best work this author has done and we published it, not because Crockett wrote it, but in spite of that fact, because we believed it to be his best effort. And yet instead of trying to urge an over-supply we were compelled to print three separate editions to fill the first advance orders.

We published only six books of fiction this Fall and we shall have no surplus stock of any of them to work off. We have had to print three editions of "Squire Phin." We are now on the second edition of "The Heart of a Girl."

We shall hereafter sell our books on their merits alone and not because we have them to sell.

We shall not seek to overstock you, and all we ask is that you keep our books in stock.

ESPECIALLY THESE:

- "This volume is a reversal of method. It is an attempt at the economic interpretation of the city. It holds that the corruption, the indifference, the incompetence of the official and the apathy of the citizen, the disparity of wealth, the poverty, vice, crime, and disease, are due to causes economic and industrial. They are traceable to our institutions, rather than to the depravity of human nature. Their correction is not a matter of education or of the penal code. It is a matter of industrial democracy. The incidental conditions are personal and ethical. Whether we adopt the personal or the economic interpretation will determine our attitude towards the problems of modern city life."—Preface.

Few girls have any definite training and they go from one kind of work to another in an irresponsible way and are often scarcely worth the pittance they earn.

- Dr. North, familiarly and lovingly known as "Old Greek," was professor of Greek in Hamilton College (Clinton, N. Y.), during fifty-eight years, his long and useful life having been brought to a close in 1903. The intimate personal relations between professor and student possible in a small college are here exemplified. The author has made this work largely autobiographical—Dr. North's life as written by himself in poem, journal, lecture, and reminiscence. Incidentally the book may be considered as a plea for the restoration of the classics in the modern curriculum.
- Our best society. N. Y., Putnam, 1905. c. 5+362 p. D. cl., $1.50.
- A brisk satire on the inane features of so-called "best society" in the large cities of the United States at present. The idle rich and their imitators and hangers on are realistically described. A young author desiring peace and quiet is thrust into the giddy whirl by his wife who is at first fascinated by meeting authors, playwrights, painters and society leaders. The decadent stage of the day and the idiocy of the wit and repartee are done to the life. Some startling methods of social progress make the plot. After a pretty hard year the couple, who have seen much decide that "our best society" may be found within their own cosy apartment.

Marriage is the irrational knot. The hero is an inventor who is wholly guided by self-interests. He marries an English lady and is soon bored by her conventionality and her total lack of sympathy in his life-work. The inventor's sister is a vaudeville actress. She refuses to marry but lives with a ne'er-do-well of the upper classes. Many characters are introduced and Shaw makes a repelling psychological study, full of wit and satire but hopelessly pessimistic. This story was written twenty-five years back and a new preface to the American edition gives its history.

The "lost viol" was taken to be used as proof of a very startling situation. The gradual wearing off of the coast of England by the ocean leads to a peculiar combination of scenes.

"The subject of bacterial diseases of plants is older than the panned-plate method of Koch, but until recently our knowledge of it has been in a very chaotic state, it having been for the most part for twenty-five years a recognized but uncultivated field. In recent years, however, publications on plant bacteria have multiplied and they now amount to several hundred titles. The writer's studies of the bacteria themselves and of the diseases which they cause, as distinct from the literature of the subject, began in 1893. At that time there was very little reliable information on this subject. The literature is now more extensive, but it is nowhere gathered together in one place and properly summarized. It has seemed therefore, for a long time, that a work of the scope of the treatise here presented might be clarifying and useful to many people. . . . More than 125 diseases will be treated or touched upon in this monograph. . . . The present volume contains an "outline method of work" which was written up four years ago in connection with the investigations of the Laboratory of Plant Pathology, Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. The author of "Susan Clegg and her friend Mrs. Lathrop" has created a new character in "Aunt Mary," who will be found quite as amusing as her predecessors. She is an extremely deaf and extremely rich maiden lady, who late in life becomes the guardian of several nieces and nephews. The chief of these is her nephew Jack, whom she quite adores. He is a tall, handsome fellow, who comes out of one scrape only to fall into another. Finally he is expelled from college and disinherited by "Aunt Mary." Jack represents himself, broken-hearted and persuades "Aunt Mary" to visit New York. How he reinstates himself in her affections, with the aid of his college friends, by giving her "the time of her life" is a story of the wildest fun.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE "FLASHLIGHT BOOK" CONTROVERSY.

THE remarkable achievement of the German naturalist, C. G. Schillings, in "flashlighting" African wild beasts in their native lair, which naturally attracted the admiration of the mighty hunter of the White House, has unfortunately led to a revival of the publishing controversies of a generation ago, before the passage of the International Copyright Amendment in 1891. Harper & Brothers are publishing this week an edition of the book which is met by the announcement of Doubleday, Page & Company that they have in press the only authorized and complete edition, and that the Harper edition is a "pirated" and incomplete one.

The facts, as seen from the two sides, seem to be as follows: The book was published in Germany nearly a year ago, before the passage of the recent amendment to the copyright law, which permits the rights in such a book to be held over for a year before an American-printed translation is issued. Had this amendment been then in force the present controversy would scarcely have arisen. Arrangements were made with an English publisher for the English and American markets, and the American market, which had for some time been held at a high asking price, was sold with sheets to Messrs. Doubleday, Page & Company. The Harpers meantime, finding the book "in the public domain," to use a phrase of copyright law, prepared an American edition, reproducing the illustrations from the German work. On learning of the Harper announcement the Doubleday house called the attention of the Harper house to the fact that they had an authorized edition in preparation and were met by the statement that the Harper edition was already printed, that the work was scheduled for immediate publication, and that the house had agreed to pay the author the usual royalty, coupled with an offer to transfer the edition at cost, provided the royalty agreement should remain in force. On learning of this agreement the Doubleday house cabled to the author or his representatives and were informed that no such agreement was known to them. The Harper house then explained that they had no knowledge that the German and English publishers had already disposed of the book, but had, in conformity with their custom, promised to pay the author a royalty of 10 per cent., though under no legal obligations to do so, and finally fell back upon their legal position, and, consequently there are to be rival editions in the market, though happily without the useless under-cutting which used to be resorted to in the bad old times.

All this emphasizes the need of the revision of the copyright law now under way, which should assure to authors and publishers such definite rights that there can be no misunderstandings "as to what is whose."

THE long-awaited decision of Judge Colt in the Ogilvie-Merriam cases was handed down last week and is given elsewhere. These cases took the intricate shape of a complaint by Mr. Ogilvie that the Merriams were interfering with his business by threatening legal proceedings against the customers, and of a cross bill from the Merriam house against Mr. Ogilvie, seeking to enjoin his publication of Webster's Imperial Dictionary. Judge Colt has denied the Ogilvie application for an injunction on the ground that the Merriams are within their legal rights, and has declined to issue a preliminary injunction against Mr. Ogilvie pending full hearing of the case. The principles and proofs on the main issue, Judge Colt held, were not sufficiently established to justify a preliminary injunction. In fairness to the trade it seems the duty of the Merriam Company to press the final hearing, and we are glad to learn that a hearing is noticed for October 17. At present nothing is decided. Injunctions have been formally granted against Webster's dictionaries issued by the Federal Book Company and the Hampden Publishing Company, but this action was in default of defence by these two companies, and though it restrains the sale of the editions published by them, has no real bearing on the general case.

THE GENERAL PAPER COMPANY CASE.

In the suit of the United States against the paper trust known as the General Paper Company, of Milwaukee, the trust from which secession by several of the individual companies was reported in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of July 15, Judge Vandeventer, of the United States District Court, sitting in St. Paul, has denied the motion for stay of proceedings pending an appeal to the United States Supreme Court on the ground that the matter in question is not appealable, and ordered that the component companies must answer the questions of the special examiner and produce the company books. The court held that a corporation under the Constitution stood in the same relation to the statute of immunity as an individual. It held that a corporation could testify against itself so far as a corporation could speak through its officers, its books and receipts, and that in the case at issue it should give the testimony desired, but that under the statute of immunity it could not be prosecuted criminally for any revelations that might be made on the witness stand.

In respect to this case J. A. Kimberly, president of the General Paper Company, said in a recent interview:

"The General Paper Company has saved its individual company's money in various ways. Formerly there were sixteen men on the road fighting for the trade over each other's shoulders. They were all high salaried men, too, getting from $5000 to $6000 a year. Their work is now done by four men. All the wood for the several mills is now bought by one company and distributed.

"Since the beginning of this suit the price of print paper has gone down from $2.25 a hundred to $1.90. The Eastern mills have come in here. There is no money in paper at $1.90. Before the formation of the General Paper Company the price ranged from $1.75 to $1.80, but the conditions are very different now. Three of my mills are not paying a dollar, and I have two more that have not paid a dividend in three years.

"The public should understand that. As far as I am concerned I am willing that the Government should see my books. If we are wrong we might as well know it. I do not believe that the company is doing anything in violation of the anti-trust laws. The company has not the power to close any mill in restriction of trade or to compel any member to sell for the posted price."

WEBSTER'S DICTIONARIES SUITS.

In the cases of George W. Ogilvie vs. G. & C. Merriam Company, and G. & C. Merriam vs. George W. Ogilvie regarding rival editions of Webster's Dictionary, Judge Colt of the Circuit Court of the United States, District of Massachusetts, has on October 5, 1905, handed down the following decision:

These are counter motions for a preliminary injunction, brought under the original bill filed by the complainant (Geo. W. Ogilvie) and the cross-bill filed by the defendant (G. & C. Merriam Co.).

The complainant and defendant are publishers of rival dictionaries. The complainant's book is entitled "Webster's Imperial Dictionary," and the defendant's book, "Webster's International Dictionary."

The complainant contends that he has the right to publish and sell a book under the title of Webster's Imperial Dictionary, and he seeks a preliminary injunction against the defendant to restrain it from interfering with the "publication, circulation and distribution" of his book.

The bill charges that "the defendant corporation has undertaken to unlawfully interfere with your orator in the prosecution of this enterprise, and in order to embarrass your orator in connection therewith and to frighten the trade from purchasing the work has threatened the trade that if they purchase and the publisher if he issues said work, they will commence suits against them 'all along the line,' and thus has attempted to prevent if possible, the issuance of said Webster's Imperial Dictionary."

It appears from the affidavits that this interference consists in certain letters written by the defendant to the complainant, stating that the publication of the complainant's book will be an infringement upon the rights of the defendant, and its purpose to use all legal means to prevent the issue; and, further, certain circulars sent out by the defendant to the trade and to publishers declaring substantially that the defendant has the exclusive right to the use of the word "Webster" as applied to dictionaries; that long and exclusive use has made the word "Webster" the trade name of the dictionaries prepared and published by the defendant; that the publication by the complainant of his proposed book is a wrong committed against the defendant, and that the defendant will hold all parties responsible for any damage which may arise by reason of the wrongful sale of the complainant's book.

It is not charged in the bill, nor is there any proof, that these acts of the defendant were not done in good faith. On the contrary, it appears that the defendant or its predecessors acquired in 1847 all the rights then existing in "Webster's Dictionary," and that since that time it or its predecessors have published numerous editions of these dictionaries, all of which have borne the name and been known and described as the production of the defendant or its predecessors. Upon this state of facts, and certainly before any judicial determination adverse to its claim, the defendant was clearly within its legal rights in sending out the letters and circulars in question. It follows that the complainant's motion for a preliminary injunction must be denied.

The defendant's counter motion, under its cross-bill, for an injunction against the complainant, presents a more serious question. If it were perfectly clear that the defendant was entitled to the exclusive use of the name "Webster" as applied to dictionaries, either upon the ground of a technical trademark, or upon the ground that the word had acquired a secondary meaning, and now indicated to the public the dictionaries published and sold by the defendant, or if it were perfectly clear that the use of this name by the complainant is of necessity misleading, especially when supplemented by the complainant's printed notices and circulars, and therefore constitutes unfair competition, I should not hesitate to grant the injunction prayed for. But upon the face of these papers it is not entirely clear that the defendant is entitled to this relief upon any one of the several grounds upon which it is urged.

The questions raised are of very great importance to the defendant. These questions cannot be satisfactorily considered or determined upon the present record, and the case should stand over until the full proofs are presented on final hearing. The defendant's motion for a preliminary injunction is denied.

INJUNCTION AGAINST THE HAMPDEN PUBLISHING COMPANY.

On Tuesday, February 8, 1905, the following injunction was given under default before the justices of the Circuit Court of the United States within the District of Massachusetts regarding the publishing and sale by the Hampden Publishing Company of Webster's "Common Sense Dictionary."

You shall not directly or indirectly publish, offer for sale, or sell any dictionary bearing the title Webster's Common Sense Dictionary, nor publish, offer for sale, or sell any dictionary bearing the title Webster's Dictionary, either alone or in conjunction with other word or words, other than those of the complainant, nor publish nor circulate any notices or advertisements wherein said dictionaries are designated by a name or title in which the word Webster or Webster's appears either alone or in conjunction with other words or any other notices or advertisements, in such manner and form that the natural and probable tendency and effect thereof will be to deceive and mislead the public into purchasing such dictionaries as and for the genuine dictionaries of said complainant, or as and for an edition or the latest edition of either of the series of said dictionaries published by the complainant or its predecessors or either of them.

A similar injunction was granted in default against the Federal Book Co. in respect to "White's Peoples Webster."

PUBLISHERS' BOWLING LEAGUE.

SEVERAL book houses have signified their intention of joining the proposed Publishers' Bowling League, and if the Oxford University Press team hear from a few more the league will be assured. If there are five men in any one concern who will represent it on the bowling alley the league can be organized and the games started. There are to be no expenses or charges of any kind excepting that the losing teams will pay for the use of the alley, as is customary in regular open games. The only purpose of the league ought to be good, clean sport and a closer acquaintance among the men of the publishing trade.

LIPPINCOTT'S NEW GAZETTEER.

ON October 28 J. B. Lippincott Company will bring out "Lippincott's New Gazetteer," edited by Angelo and Louis Heilprin, whose names stand for the most learned scholarship and conscientious work that can be obtained. This dictionary of universal geography is the successor of "Lippincott's Pronouncing Gazetteer," which in its various editions has been before the English-speaking world for half a century. It is a new publication, printed from new type from title-page to cover. Only the framework or skeleton of its predecessor has been retained, together with the system of pronunciation introduced by that great master, Dr. Joseph Thomas. The present publication will be found to present an accurate picture of the globe in its minutest details as it exists in the twentieth century. Each one of its 100,000 notices, varying in length from a single line to thousands of words, speaks for itself. An important adjunct to the geographic treatment of places is the historic reference, which has been subjected to the same rigid scrutiny as the more purely geographical data, and the student in history will find this publication a most valuable and reliable guide in the prosecution of his own particular work. The gazetteer presents, further, the most complete and accurate guide in the pronunciation of place names that has yet appeared in the English language—in this respect holding a distinctive position of its own. Particular attention has been bestowed upon the proper rendering of East European and Oriental names—Russian, Hungarian, Asiatic, etc. A most valuable feature of the work is the mention of classical names. As an evidence of its comprehensiveness, it need only be remarked that the present work contains upward of 27,000 titles that do not appear in its predecessor.

LECTURES ON PRINTING.

"PRINTING" was the subject of the meeting of the New York Library Club, held on Thursday evening, October 12. Mr. Ingalls Kimball, of the Cheltenham Press, described modern bookmaking from the printing side, saying that nowadays the manufacturing man, not the printer, was the real book maker. The quality of the paper used in modern books is such that few are likely to survive a century. Illustrations for any other than technical books are superfluous and generally undesirable. In books where illustrations are needed great care should be taken to make them explanatory and effective, but with the utmost skill in diagrams, plates and explanations it has not yet been found possible to "make a book fool-proof." The Government carries on one of the greatest printing plants in existence, but in its management the technical excellence of its work is little regarded. The public printer is criticised or considered as a government appointee, as a maker of contracts, as head of a Government department, but no one ever asks whether he knows the book-making business or what kind of books he turns out. Government publications as a whole are among the worst made and most poorly bound of any class of books.

Henry Lewis Johnson, editor of Printing Art, spoke on some of the influences affecting modern printing. He said that a very strong influence in raising public taste in matters of printing was the work done by pupils in the public schools in preparing their school themes in neatly made pamphlets, with artistic decorations and covers. Samples of some of this work were shown. Mr. Johnson spoke also of the Boston Society of Printers and the recent establishment, under its auspices, of a school of printing, which he regarded as a great step toward advancement of the printing art.

The meeting was held in the dining hall of the General Theological Seminary, in Chelsea Square, and was attended by about 150 persons. An exhibition of examples of fine printing and of rare books from the society's collection were shown in the library of the seminary.

The officers of the New York Library Club this year are: Henry W. Kent, Metropolitan Museum of Art, president; Miss Alice Wilde, New York Public Library, secretary; and Victor H. Paltsits, Lenox Library, treasurer.

BOOKS PRINTED IN THE SOUTH DURING THE CIVIL WAR.

Most of the new books read by the people of Alabama during the war between the States, 1860-1865, according to an article in The Magazine of History, written by Walter L. Fleming, were published in Atlanta, Ga., Richmond, Va., or Charleston, S. C., though during the last two years of the war. Mobile, (Ala.) publishers sent out many thousand volumes. W. G. Clark & Co., of Mobile, confined their attention principally to text books, works on military science and tactics, fiction, translations, music, etc. The best-selling Southern novel published during the war was "Macaria," by Augusta J. Evans, of Mobile. It was printed by S. H. Goetzel, who also published Mrs. Ford's "Exploits of Morgan and His Men," which was pirated or reprinted by Richardson, of New York. Walker, Evans & Cogswell, of Charleston, published Miss Evans's "Beulah." Both "Macaria" and "Beulah" were reprinted in the North. Goetzel bound his books in rotten pasteboard and in wall paper. In 1864 he published (on wrapping paper) a four-volume translation, by Adelaide de V. Chaudron, of Mühlbach's "Joseph II. and His Court." He published other translations of Miss Mühlbach's historical novels—indeed, he was her first American publisher. Wagner's "Tannhauser" was first printed in America in Mobile. Hardee's "Rifle and Infantry Tactics," in two volumes, and Wheeler's "Cavalry Tactics" were printed in large editions by Goetzel for the use of Alabama troops. Clark published "The Confederate States Almanac and Repository of Useful Knowledge," a kind of annual encyclopædia. Lieutenant Colonel Fremantle's book, "Three Months in the Southern States," was published in Mobile in 1864, and in the same year the works of Dickens and George Eliot were reprinted by Goetzel.

OBITUARY NOTES.

PROFESSOR BARON FERDINAND VON RICHTHOFEN died on Saturday, October 14, in Berlin. He was born in 1833. He was the author of many works, including "The Comstock Lode," "Principles of the Natural System of Volcanic Rocks," and "Letters to the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce."

EDWARD FRANCIS WEEKS, fifty-eight years old, a manufacturer of stationery at 68 Pine Street, New York City, was taken sick on a Jersey Central Railroad train on Thursday evening, October 5, while en route from Jersey City to his home in Elizabeth. He was removed from the train at the Greenville station in a dying condition. He lived only a few minutes. Mr. Weeks lived at 44 Monroe Avenue, Elizabeth.

HENRY B. HOYT, of the firm of Hoyt & Adams, booksellers and stationers of Rochester, N. Y., died October 1. At a meeting of the booksellers and stationers of Rochester, at the store of Scrantom, Wetmore & Company, Richard G. Powers was made chairman, William H. Williamson, secretary, Erastus Darrow and Lansing G. Wetmore Committee on Resolutions. The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we hear with profound regret of the death of Henry B. Hoyt. Born to the trade, the son of the eminent bookseller of his time, David Hoyt, and afterward of the firm of Hoyt & Adams, and until the death of the late Charles E. Morris active in the book and stationery business with him. We express our sincere sympathy with his wife and surviving sister and brothers. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to his family and the trade and daily papers.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

HELEN PITKIN, author of "Angel by Brevet," a story of aristocratic life in old New Orleans, is at work on a new story of Southern life, which is expected to be ready this fall.

BEFORE sailing for Europe last Thursday as director of the Egyptian Expedition of the University of Chicago, Professor James H. Breasted read the final proofs of his book, "A History of Egypt," which the Scribners will publish the end of this month. Professor Breasted's book is addressed both to scholars and to tourists. Its scholarship rests upon the surviving original records themselves, of which new translations have been made; while the clearness, freshness, picturesqueness and vigor of the narrative will make the book acceptable to the general reader. In the preparation of the work, the popular character of which, by the way, is emphasized by the fact that it will contain no fewer than two hundred illustrations and maps, a related enterprise was of the greatest assistance to the author. A mission to the museums of Europe to collect their Egyptian monuments for a commission of the four Royal Academies of Germany (Berlin, Leipzig, Göttingen and Munich), in order to make these documents available for a great Egyptian dictionary endowed by the German Emperor, enabled Professor Breasted to copy from the originals practically all the historical monuments of Egypt in Europe.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE MOODY CORPORATION, 35 Nassau Street, New York City, will shortly begin the publication of Moody's Magazine, a monthly review for investors, bankers and men of affairs. It will present in the most popular form all the essential facts for investors. It will exhibit the underlying social and economic forces that govern prices and values. It will discuss railroad rate legislation, municipal ownership, insurance scandals, reciprocity, the tariff, and other public and political questions from the standpoint of the ordinary business man and investor. It will analyze and criticize, freely, fairly and fully, reports of railroads and large industrial corporations. The first number will contain a symposium on the effects of the increasing supply of gold. The fact that the world's yearly output of gold is now twice what it was in 1895, and four times what it was in 1885, and that the effects of a depreciating standard of value upon prices, wages, interest, etc., are many and varied, will make this discussion by banking, financial and economic experts most timely and interesting.

THE first two numbers are out of The New York Review, a periodical to be issued bi-monthly and to stand for what are considered advanced views amongst Catholics in questions of philosophy and theology. No article will be published which does not recognize and do justice to modern points of views and modern scholarship. It is true that many Catholic scholars, especially in Europe, are doing excellent work along the lines above indicated. But, as their productions are, for the most part, scattered through various reviews, many of which are not available for the average English-speaking public, there will be a manifest advantage in bringing together in one special periodical the combined results of their scientific labors. Among the contributors are Wilfrid Ward, Brunetière, Francis E. Gigot, Padre E. Ginocchi and many known through the religious and scientific world. The periodical will be edited by professors of the Diocesan Seminary at Yonkers.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

DE WITT & SNELLING, 236 Stockton Street, San Francisco, Cal., have in press a catalogue of the Americana in the collection of the late I. W. Lees, for some time chief of police of San Francisco, the sale of whose library is progressing favorably. They desire to sell as a whole the very complete and valuable collection of criminology, comprising upwards of 800 bound volumes, 1000 pamphlets and 60 scrap books, representing a thirty years' search through the book markets of the world. They also offer in one lot the Spanish collection of 300 bound volumes and many early manuscripts and prints.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY have already issued their catalogue for the holiday season, and to the initiated it shows at once how generous has been the outlay to make it attractive at first glance. Bound in blue stiff paper covers, it has decorations of embossed books bearing the titles of the great favorites of the hour, gotten out by all the publishers of note. It contains upwards of 250 pages, well printed and profusely illustrated with pictures from all the books expected to be the holiday sellers. It has also many fine tinted and colored illustrations, several of them just tacked in as insets and worthy to be taken out from their business surroundings and neatly framed to decorate the home. Every page is certainly a temptation, and any one who receives the handsome volume from the American News Company ought certainly to study it carefully and select wisely from its vast embarrassment of riches, books, calendars and pictures that will need to be replaced over and over again throughout the season.

NEW YORK CITY.—James F. Drake, who was three years with J. W. Bouton, two and a half years with George H. Richmond and five years with Dodd, Mead & Co., and is well known in the trade, has opened business for himself at 4 West 40th Street under the name of Association Book Company. Here he hopes to have a fine selection of first editions, fine bindings, Americana, sporting books, dramatic works, etc. He will make a specialty of autographs.

NEW YORK CITY.—James Pott & Co. have incorporated in New York to carry on their publishing business. The directors are James Pott, R. M. Pott, New York, and F. W. Hallam, Brooklyn.

WAYNE, NEB.—M. S. Davies has sold his bookstore to Jones & Felver.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

D. APPLETON & COMPANY have just ready "The Young Man and the World," by Senator A. J. Beveridge; "The Game and the Candle," a new story by Frances Davidge, author of "The Misfit Crown," also, "The Duke of Devil-May-Care," by Harris Dickson.

THOMAS WHITTAKER has just published a new volume of meditations by the Rev. Dr. A. G. Mortimer, rector of St. Mark's, Philadelphia, entitled "It Ringeth to Even Song: Thoughts for Advancing Years." The purpose is to afford suggestion and help towards usefulness and happiness in the autumn time of life.

BRENTANO's are fortunate in securing Bernard Shaw's "The Irrational Knot," which with "Man and Superman" is now discussed throughout the land. "The Irrational Knot," written some years ago, now appears for the first time in book form. Mr. Shaw has written one of his most characteristic prefaces which whets curiosity for this novel that is a severe study of marriage.

THE HOBART COMPANY, New York City, announce a new story by General Charles King, entitled "A Soldier's Trial: an episode of the canteen crusade." This will be a strong story in favor of re-establishing the canteen, as this privilege has proved the one sensible way of dealing with the evils of army life. The general has written another stirring tale of border warfare.

JOHN C. WINSTON Co. have a valuable contribution to the literature of the time in "The United States a Christian Nation," by the Hon. David C. Brewer; and a book deserving careful study in "The American Boy and the Social Evil," by Dr. Robert N. Wilson, physician to the University of Pennsylvania. Also important is Dr. J. G. Griffith's "Helps and Hints on Nursing."

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have issued "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," by Anne Warner, a story of Aunt Mary's adventures in New York City, combined with a pretty love story of irresistible humor and of the pathos that always lies so near true humor. "The Balingtons," by Frances Squire, issued last week, is a psychologic story of marriage relations worked out with insight and, at times, daring logic.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will bring out during the fall "In the March and Borderland of Wales," by A. G. Bradley, with sketches by W. M. Meredith; and "Counsels and Ideals from the Writings of William Osler. The following announced books have been put off until spring: "Charles Godfrey Leland," by Mrs. Pennell; "The Subconscious," by Joseph Jastrow; and "The Fixed Period," by William Osler.

W. C. KEENER & Co. have just ready a third edition of "A Manual of Chemistry," by A. P. Luff and Frederick James M. Page, the ninth revised edition of Hygiene and Public Health," by B. Arthur Whitelegge and George Newman; "The Care and Management of Delicate Children," by Lewis Percy; and a third revised edition of George Herschell's "Indigestion: treatment of functional derangements of the stomach."

WILLIAM R. JENKINS, New York City, will bring out this autumn Dr. Robert Ostertag's "Handbook of Meat Inspection;" Dr. Kenelm Winslow's "Veterinary Materia Medica and Therapeutics;" Dr. G. Moussu's "Diseases of Cattle, Sheep, Goats and Swine;" P. J. Cadiot's "Treatise on Surgical Therapeutics of Domestic Animals;" Dr. Fred. Smith's "Manual of Veterinary Hygiene;" Neumann's "Parasites and Parasitic Diseases of Domesticated Animals;" a second edition of Dr. T. M. Legge's "Cattle Tuberculosis," translated by Harold Sessions.

DANA ESTES & Co. have a find in "Eve's Daughters," compiled by a Mere Man and portrayed by Arthur G. Learned. It consists of epigrams about woman drawn from the literatures of the world, breathing eulogy, satire, philosophy and wit, all set off by dainty line illustration, marginal decorations and full-page illustrations, making a holiday gift-book in its bright gold-stamped cover. The house have just ready "The Brass-Bound Box," by Evelyn Raymond; "Mary 'n' Mary," by Edith Francis Foster, a finely illustrated story for young girls.

B. W. HUEBSCH, New York City, will publish shortly "In Peril of Change," essays on the present times and the possibilities of coming events by C. F. G. Masterman, with a look back on the times of Gladstone, Huxley, Spencer and others that have worked for their day and generation; and "Moral Leaders," a handbook of twelve lectures by Edward Howard Griggs, covering leaders from Socrates to Tolstoi. It is a preparation for the lectures Professor Griggs will deliver in the large cities this winter, suggesting topics for study and giving a carefully selected bibliography.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. have just ready "The Pang Yanger," by Dr. Elma A. Travis, which has been awaited for some time, publication having been postponed for a time to get enough ready for the great advance demand. The book is a novel of American life, with scene in the Catskill Mountains. The hero, Abijah Beade, has been deserted by his wife, who took advantage of there being no witnesses to her marriage, and he, a son of the soil, vigorous and primitive, seeks revenge upon her. She has married again and the complications of the plot are full of interest.

DODGE PUBLISHING COMPANY have ready "The Chronicles of the Little Tot," by Edmund Vance Cooke, whose verses always show such deep understanding of child nature; and "Thought Transference," by Northcote W. Thomas, who deals critically and sympathetically with the question in a manner to be understood by the average reader. In rapid succession they will bring out the Oriental edition of "The Rubaiyat" with photogravure illustrations by Adelaide Hanscombe; "Mother Stork's Baby Book," with verses by Field and Stevenson; and "What to Have for Dinner," by Fannie Merritt Farmer.

THE CENTURY COMPANY are bringing out a delightful children's book in "Queen Zixi of Ix," in which L. Frank Baum, the inventor of "The Wizard of Oz," again shows his rare genius at pure fun and nonsense, in which he is ably aided and abetted by his illustrator, Frederick Richardson; and also promise the boys a wonderfully stirring book in "Pinkey Perkins, Just a Boy," by Captain Harold Hammond, of the United States Army. Pinkey is a genius and as full of adventure, fun and frolic as the immortal "Tom Sawyer." The books bear the Century imprint; needless to say they are models of bookmaking.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just published "The Old Road," by H. Belloc. The illustrations are fine examples of the skill of artist and engraver. The volume contains eleven photogravure plates and seventeen line illustrations, besides a map in six sections. The same house have also just issued "Facts and Fancies About Java," by Augusta De Wit. A most interesting and informing description of Java, its life and its people, with something of its history and legend. The author has drawn her material from a long residence in the island. The book has more than 160 illustrations finely reproduced in half tone from original photographs.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready "Caroline of Courtland Street," by Weymer J. Mills, a captivating tale of old New York, illustrated in color by Anna Whelan Betts and gotten out in holiday attire, as are also "London Films," by W. D. Howells, in which Mr. Howells's mental kodak has taken humorous snap-shots of contrasts between the English and American metropolis, all happily illustrated in pictures; "The Pleasant Tragedies of Childhood," drawings by F. Y. Cory and verses by Burges Johnson; and "Wee Winkles and Wide Awake," by Gabrielle E. Jackson, a story for little folk just beginning to read for themselves, very happily illustrated.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready "Romance of the French Abbeys," by Elizabeth W. Champney, which fully carries out Guizot's advice, "If you are fond of romance, read history;" "Mohammed: the Rise of Islam," by D. S. Margoliouth, professor of Arabic, Oxford University, the newest in the Heroes of the Nations Series; "The Principles of the Administrative Law of the United States," by Frank J. Goodnow, intended for the general student of American institutions; and two novels: "At the Sign of the Jack O' Lantern," a story of a New York newspaper man and his young wife, by Myrtle Reed; and "The Scarlet Pimpernel, a romance of the French Revolution by Baroness Orczy.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co., Philadelphia, are preparing a most attractive gift book under the title "Shakespeare's Sweetheart," a story by Sara Hawks Sterling, with full-page illustrations in color by Clara Elsené Peck. The text will be printed in two colors throughout and the pretty book will be neatly boxed to look more festive. "The Girl and the Deal," by Karl Edward Harriman, is meeting with deserved success. The hero, who is a finished product of Boston culture, learns much on a trip to San Francisco to put through a "deal" for his father, and the descriptions of the beauties of our vast country are remarkably well written. The book is to be steadily advertised and dealers will no doubt be asked for it.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. on October 19 will issue "Life and Religion," by Max Muller; "Child's Rainy Day Book," by Mary White Talbot; "The Home Library of Law," by Albert S. Bolles; and Part 5 of "The Dog Book," by James Watson. On the 26th they will publish "The Tree Book," by Julia S. Rogers, illustrated by 350 photographs taken by A. Radcliffe Bugmore, the skilled nature photographer; and "Country Homes of Famous Americans," by Oliver Bronson Capen, with introduction by T. Wentworth Higginson. We note with pleasure that "The Clansman" has reached its eightieth thousand, and that "The Missourian," by Eugene P. Lyle, is at the moment among the "six best sellers" in the United States.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have a fine story in James M. Ludlow's new novel, entitled "Sir Raoul: a story of the theft of an empire, a fitting successor of "The Captain of the Janizaries" and "Deborah." The plot is based upon historical facts concerning the failure of that crusade of the thirteenth century, which was diverted from conquering the Moslems to the capture of the Christian city of Constantinople. Ludlow has again made his readers acquainted with a woman that they can never forget. Also ready and most promising are "St. Cecilia of the Court," by Isabella R. Hess; "The Village Artist," by Adeline M. Teskey; "The Wisdom of the Simple: a tale of lower New York," by Owen Kildare; and W. J. Dawson's "Makers of English Fiction."

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY will issue "The Black Spaniel," by Robert Hichens, author of "The Garden of Allah," and "The Heart of Lady Anne," by Agnes and Egerton Castle, a new story of the charming circle made famous in "The Bath Comedy." Two instant successes have been "The Speculations of John Steele," by Robert Barr, a wonderful story of railroads and "trusts;" and "A Servant of the Public," by Anthony Hope, of which there is already a second large edition almost exhausted. During the month they will have ready a handsome edition of Lewis Carroll's "Through the Looking Glass," and "Sir Toady Crusoe," another of S. R. Crockett's juveniles, telling of the adventures of two boys and a girl in a picturesque spot on an English seacoast.

THE novelists are not the only authors whose books are entitled to be classed as "best sellers." Not infrequently books of which the general public rarely hears achieve this enviable distinction, as, for example, Dr. Frederick H. Sykes's "Elementary English Composition." In the short time since its publication, last May, by Charles Scribner's Sons, Dr. Sykes's book has been adopted for exclusive use for a period of five years in all of the schools of Mississippi. In addition to this, three editions have been required by the demand resulting from the adoption of the book throughout the country in many of the largest and most representative cities, the sales in these few months amounting to about 16,000 copies. Dr. Sykes is connected with the Teachers' College, Columbia University.

HENRY HOLT & COMPANY will issue next week "The Professor's Legacy," by Mrs. Alfred Sidgwick, a novel of German university and English country life; "The Lincoln and Douglas Debates," edited by Professor Archibald Lewis Bouton, of New York University; and "The Wizards of Ryetown," by A. C. Smedley and L. A. Talbot, a charming fairy story reinforced by Miss McGregor's quaint and funny illustrations. Very shortly will be issued Professor E. Ray Lankester's "Extinct Animals," by arrangement with Archibald & Co., of London, with the remarkable illustrations of the English edition. These English publishers have also contracted to bring out on the other side Beers's two books on "English Romanticism" on the 18th and 19th centuries, respectively; and Henry S. Pancoast's "An Introduction to English Literature."

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have among their latest books "The Elements of Sociology," by Frank W. Blackmar; "The Garnett and Gosse "English Literature," in a cheaper edition in four volumes; "Roman Education," by A. S. Wilkins; "Surgical Aspect of Digestive Disorders," by James G. Mumford; "Government Regulations of Railway Rates," by Hugo Richard Meyer; a new edition of Arthur Lachman's "The Spirit of Organic Chemistry; "Tables and Constants to Four Figures," compiled by William Hall; "The Works of Mr. Abraham Cowley;" "On Models of Cubic Surfaces," by W. H. Blythe; and "Vedic Metre in Its Historical Development," by E. Vernon Arnold. In lighter vein are Emerson Hough's "Heart's Desire," the story of a contented town; Jack London's "Tales of the Fish Patrol;" and Samuel Merwin's "The Road Builders," an exciting story of railroad building in Texas.

A. S. BARNES & Co. have just ready "The Cherry Ribband," by S. R. Crockett, specially dedicated to the readers of "The Lilac Sunbonnet;" "Squire Phin," by Holman F. Day, a story of "Down East" full of pathos and humor about people who are not rubbed down to a commonplace by the friction of cities; "Lodgings In Town," by Henry Arthur, who here completes a delightful trilogy of which the first two books, "An Island Cabin," and "The House In the Woods," gain in popularity day by day; and "The Shakespeare Story Book," by Mary McLeod with introduction by Sidney Lee, giving the story of all the best known plays in animated narrative. The popularity of Prof. R. K. Duncan's "The New Knowledge" remains unabated and England has just called for a fourth edition. Quite new and of great importance is "The Business of Life Insurance," by Miles Menander Dawson, a comprehensive work for the public on which the author has spent twenty-five years of earnest study.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS will issue for the first week of November "General Sociology," by Albion W. Small, which is an exposition of the development of social theory from Spencer to Ratzenhofer; "A Decade of Civic Improvement," by Charles Zueblin, a vigorous optimist who reviews the work done in the past ten years for the betterment of our cities; and "Primary Facts in Religious Thought," by Alfred W. Wishart, who starts with the conception of religion as a universal, inevitable, human experience, and shows how the essence of religion can be kept and do its work in the life of society in spite of changing views on minor points. Important books of recent issue are Milyoukov's "Russia and Its Crisis," "Christian Belief Interpreted by Christian Experience," by Charles Cuthbert Hall; "The Prophetic Element in the Old Testament," by William R. Harper, who is also author of "Religion and the Higher Life" and of "The Trend in Higher Education;" and "Place of Industries in Elementary Education," by Katharine E. Dopp.

ROBERT GRIER COOKE, of New York, has in hand a sumptuous edition of the proceedings at the Nineteenth Annual Lincoln Dinner of the Republican Club of New York, which will be published privately by the club. The volume will contain President Roosevelt's notable address, and the instructive speech Senator Doliver made on that occasion, and also Senator Knight's address in response to the toast, "The Republican Party." Mr. Cooke has also brought out for J. Pierpont Morgan an edition of 250 copies of a work describing Mr. Morgan's collection of "Chinese Porcelains," with over 70 plates in many colors; a booklet for the Peary Arctic Club, which contains a portrait of Commander Peary and a picture of The Roosevelt, in which Peary expects to reach the North Pole; also a limited edition, on Japan paper, in colors, of the "Portrait of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt," drawn from life by Gardner C. Teall, which will prove of unusual interest in anticipation of Mme. Bernhardt's forthcoming American tour. These books are all exquisite works of typographic art and decoration.

JOHN LANE COMPANY, The Bodley Head, call attention to "Great Japan," a study of national efficiency by Alfred Stead, with introduction by the Earl of Rosebery; "Heretics," by Gilbert K. Chesterton, who sets forth the heresies of Kipling, Yeats, Shaw, Omar Khayyám, etc.; "The Ford," a novel by A. E. J. Legge; "The Duke of Reichstadt," the life of Napoleon's son L'Aiglon, by Edward de Wertheimer; "Napoleon, the First Phase," an account of the youth and boyhood of the emperor, by Oscar Browning; "The Singing of the Future," by David Ffrangcon-Davies, with a preface by Sir Edward Elgar; "Life and Romance in the Indian Jungle," by Captain A. I. R. Glasfurd, of the Indian Army; "Moorish Remains in Spain," by Albert F. Calvert, of which the first volume, now ready, deals with Cordova, Seville and Toledo; "The Poems of William Watson," edited by J. A. Spender, in two volumes; "Last Poems," by Laurence Hope; "Collected Poems of Ernest Dowson, with illustrations by Aubrey Symons; "The Creed of Christ," said to be as remarkable as "Ecce Homo;" and "Memoirs of a Royal Chaplain, 1729-1763," edited by Albert Hartshorne; "Jane Austen: Her Homes and Friends," by Constance Hill, has been added to the Croton Library; and there is also a volume on "Jane Austen's Sailor Brothers," by J. H. and Edith C. Hubback.

L. C. PAGE & Co. will issue late in the month "China," by the late Colonel Charles Denby. This famous diplomat served under four administrations as minister to China for thirteen years, and splendidly improved this rarest of opportunities to gain an insight into the life and heart of the Orient. His book of observations, reminiscences and conclusions is a most valuable contribution to the literature on China, and even to the casual reader is a fascinating volume. Colonel Denby's son, Charles Denby, at present a resident of China, which he bids fair to know nearly as well as his father, has added a chapter or two on the events subsequent to his father's death. The illustrations are from photographs owned by Colonel Denby, many of which were presented to him by his Chinese friends and associates, and enhance the personal atmosphere of the book which renders it so attractive. The house also announces the following new printings: "The Rival Campers," the juvenile by Ruel P. Smith issued a few weeks ago, second impression; "Poetry of American Wit and Humor," third impression; "Cathedrals of Southern France," by Francis Miltoun, fourth impression; "Among English Inns," Miss Josephine Tozier's delightful book of travel in rural England, sixth impression; and "The Heart of the Ancient Wood," Professor Charles G. D. Roberts's nature romance, the tenth impression.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. have just ready a handsome edition of Scott's Waverley Novels, in twenty-five volumes, printed from new large type on fine paper, with a number of illustrations from paintings, photographs and drawings. They have nearly ready "The Diary of a Bride," which deals with intimate matters of the heart; "The Happy Life," a new edition of a book, by Charles W. Eliot, of Harvard, which has aroused some discussion as to its similarity of theme with Pastor Wagner's books, though originally published some time before Wagner's books appeared; "Benjamin Franklin's Selected Essays," edited by U. Waldo Cutler; "Best Hundred American Poems," selected by John R. Howard; "Lohengrin," by Oliver Huckel, who retells Wagner's music drama in the spirited English verse which distinguished his "Parsifal," published last year; "The Melody of God's Love," a study of the twenty-third Psalm, by Oliver Huckel; "Irving's Selected Works," in the Crowell's Miniature edition, printed on India paper from readable type, forming the smallest and daintiest edition of Irving on the market; "The Minister as Prophet," by Charles E. Jefferson, who defines some of the duties of the minister and explains his mission in a practical way; "The Loves of Great Composers," by Gustav Kobbé, containing entertaining accounts of the romances of Chopin, Schuman, Mendelssohn, Liszt and others, with twenty-four full-page illustrations printed in colors; "Is Life Worth Living?" by Frederick Lynch, a well-worded brief discussion of the subject, thoroughly logical and to the point; "The Life That Counts," by Samuel Valentine Cole, president of Wheaton Seminary, who describes the life that serves other lives and counts for something in the world, and shows this good life has been essentially the same in all ages; also, "Greatness in Literature, and Other Papers," by William P. Trent, of Columbia University, consisting of eight papers, the first dealing with great names in authorship, the second giving a word for the smaller authors and for popular judgment, and the other six treating of all kinds of aims and methods in literary study.

This book is worth your while.

We want all booksellers to take especial note of "The Pang-Yanger" by Elma A. Travis, M.D., published about October 25th. Primarily, we, the publishers, and you, the bookseller, are in the book business for the same reason—for making money. It is a great thing for both of us when the selling power of a book can be recognized in advance. When it is a good book by the author of a previous good seller, we all know that the book will sell well. Such a book is "My Friend the Chauffeur."

The Pang-Yanger,

is a new book by a new author, but when we bought this book, and now that we have brought it out, we are convinced that it has that power which will make it one of the larger sellers.

We call your attention to the following facts:

"The Pang-Yanger" will be published Oct. 25th. It is the usual 12mo novel, at the publisher's price of $1.50.

It will be advertised in a list of the leading newspapers of the United States, reaching a circulation of five million people.

Herewith is reproduced the first advertisement which will appear Friday, October 20th. We propose to keep up this sort of advertising until every person, whether a regular book reader or not, will read this book from sheer interest in its preliminary advertising.

Do not fail to have a good-sized order of "The Pang-Yanger" on your list of books, because we believe it is going to make a popular appeal.

What is a Pang-Yanger?

A new book, with strange and unusual features, is "The Pang-Yanger" by Elma A. Travis, M.D. Abijah Bead is the Pang-Yanger, a man with a strange and almost weird sense of justice and revenge who punishes his faithless wife by bringing her son to grow up in the community where she is best known so that his startling resemblance will be a constant punishment to her. This is a real and stirring story. The author rounds out her tale with vivid pictures of the life in Pang-Yang, the Catskill village where it all happens. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50. All booksellers.

We bought the American book and serial rights of this important work, and shall publish it immediately in one very handsome volume of 900 pages, containing the author's complete series of 302 untouched photographs, uniform with "The Opening of 'Ibét'"—that is, a $6.00 book for $3.80. DISCOUNT TO THE TRADE OF ONE-THIRD ON ONE OR MORE COPIES WILL BE GIVEN.

Sir H. H. Johnston has written an introduction to this epoch-making volume, and Mr. Roosevelt has written the author to express his admiration of the achievement.

Mr. Schillings is a well known traveller, hunter and scientist; in 1903 he went for a fourth time through equatorial East Africa with a caravan of 170 carriers and an elaborate photographic outfit suitable for telephotography and flashlight work; and the results of these expeditions show the reader incredibly clear and intimate details of the wild life of lions, elephants, rhinoceroses, hippopotami, giraffes, hyenas, zebras, condor, and almost every other important beast and bird of the region.

These are the only reproductions from the original negatives of these pictures which have appeared in America. Messrs. Harper & Brothers have issued a "pirated" version containing a portion of the text and only one-third of the illustrations copied from the half-tones in the German edition, without sanction of the author or the German or English publishers—and in the face of our information that we had paid a high price for the American rights. Up to the day of publication of the Harper edition the author had had no communication with them whatever. We have changed the title of our book to emphasize the difference. This is the only version which is in any sense adequate or authorized.

Uniform with "The Opening of Tibet." $3.80 net. (Postage 38 cents)

American Standard Revised Bible

A new translation from the original by eminent American and British scholars who worked 29 years to give to the world of to-day

The Bible IN Plain English

It is not a new Bible — The American Standard is simply the Great Book made plain for every reader.

"It is not the Bible that is being revised; it is man's fallible translations from one human language into another that are capable of constant improvement in order to better convey the Father's message." — Charles Gallaudet Trumbull, Editor of the Sunday School Times.

"The most perfect English Bible in existence. It embodies in itself the greatest number of good qualities, and is the best representative of the ripest scholarship at the close of the nineteenth and the beginning of the twentieth century." — Prof. Ira M. Price, Ph.D., LL.D., University of Chicago.

All booksellers have in stock, or can quickly get from us, any style of the American Standard Revised Bible you order. Prices 35c. to $18.00, according to size and binding. See that you get the American Standard Edition. Look for the Nelson imprint and the endorsement of The American Revision Committee on the back of title page. We sell direct where booksellers will not supply.

Terms of Payment on Both Regular and Special Offers

Terms are always subject to special agreement, but in general they are as follows:

On sale for 90 days: all copies sold at the end of that time to be paid for, cash in full, pro rata, the remainder to be returned to us at our expense immediately thereafter, either upon receipt of our request or at the option of the dealer. If further pictures are ordered before the end of the 90-day period, the first lot is to be paid for before the shipment of the new lot. Prices and terms on which new lot may be furnished are a matter for future agreement.

Packing: The pictures are regularly put up in flat pasteboard boxes of 100 pictures each, 95 Sepia and 5 black, or 100 in full original colors, besides two mounted pictures for display purposes.

Window-Display: Dealers are urged to give the pictures a prominent and continuous window-display.

$100 Orders: Dealers who are selling the pictures well are urged to let us ship them in lots of 1,000. We pack the 10 boxes of 100 pictures each in a neat wooden box with sliding cover. The whole occupies only two cubic feet of space. We prepay the express and all unsold pictures are returnable to us at our expense (as stated above). The profit is then 150% on every retail sale, instead of 66 2/3%.

Sample Copies: A sample in sepia or black will be sent in a mailing-tube, to any address in the world, on receipt of 20 cents in stamps (of any country); in full original colors for $1.10.

Christmas Bookselling

How to Help it Along

Every live bookseller at this season is considering plans for holiday cataloging. The vital question with him is how to make his Christmas announcements with both dignity and effect without spending too much time and money in the production of an adequate list.

This question is answered economically in the use of "The Christmas Bookshelf" (the Christmas number of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY) with the dealer's own imprint. It is a magazine-catalog of about 240 pages, copiously illustrated with specimen illustrations from the best books of the year. It contains unquestionably the most attractive assemblage of the best new issues of all the publishers, with ample descriptive notices. A feature is the carefully-prepared purchase list, which, with the publishers' own advertisements, gives a comprehensive survey of about all a bookseller would be likely to keep in stock during the holiday season.

It is a Christmas Catalog that your customers will feel flattered in receiving!

The price for editions with the bookseller's own imprint, is based on cost of paper and press-work only, without counting cost of composition (which is done as the Christmas issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY), and, therefore, is below the cost of a catalog made by any bookseller for himself.

Per 100 Copies.					$10.00
" 250	"	.	.	.	20.00
" 500	"	.	.	.	38.00
" 1000	"	.	.	.	75.00

A small edition is printed on thick paper, with dealer's imprint, at $20.00 per 100 copies.

We remind you that it is necessary to have orders early, so that we may regulate the size of the edition. Usually, the edition, even when we print somewhat above our orders, has been promptly exhausted as soon as specimens could be shown, so that you cannot depend on a supply unless you order now. We shall be glad to send you a sample copy of last year's issue, if you will send post card request.
